Mary came to meet with me several years ago. Her journey had begun with the trauma of sexual abuse.

Mary's heart was shattered.

Often she heard it crying out,

"What's wrong with me?

Why did Daddy hurt me?

Where was God during this abuse?"

Mary felt ugly, dirty, used,

and somehow responsible.

She struggled emotionally.

Her painful past oozed out everywhere.

Mary couldn't hold life together any longer.

Was there hope? Yes! Her heart could be knitted together and made whole again.

Would Mary learn how to love herself in spite of her past abuse?
